This is your portal to all training resources, online and classroom, available through the BPS Training Section.

Access this site for new worker training, experienced worker training, supervisory resources, distance learning opportunities, and additional resources and links.

New Worker Training

If you are a new worker or you supervise new workers, this is the place to go! All new worker training for various job functions is located on this site.

Begin by developing an Individual Training Plan for your job function, and then follow that plan to complete appropriate and/or required new worker training.

Registration Center

The BPS Registration Center provides access to descriptions of all BPS Training Section course offerings, class schedules, online registration, transcripts, and personal profile information.

You can register for any BPS Training Section class through the BPS Registration Center. In addition, you can determine the classes currently offered and plan your training.

Distance Learning

Access this site for a complete listing of distance learning (computer based training, independent study topics, etc.) opportunities offered by the BPS Training Section.

Resources and Links

This site contains resources and website links that may be helpful for various job functions. Links to manuals and handbooks as well as other resources can be found through this site. There are also desk aids and other quick reference materials located here.

Experienced Worker Training

If you are an experienced worker looking for training or job aids, access this website. A variety of tools and training opportunities are available to you through this website!

This site includes self assessments you can use to determine your training needs, access to training opportunities, and information to help you with your job.

Supervisory Central

Are you a supervisor looking for training opportunities for your self or your staff? Find both here!

Supervisory Central contains a variety of resources for supervisory skill development sorted by skill area. There are links to course offerings, recommended reading, websites, and online learning opportunities.
